- We're offering noncredit classes for the whole family all summer long.
- For your elementary-age family member, how about one of our week-long iCamp technology sessions?
- For your middle schooler, how about one of our weeklong Reflections classes?
- For your teens, try our our week-long Kaleidoscope program—and your rising senior may be eligible to take a Summer School class.
- For the adults, how about a cooking class or a photography class?

And if you can't escape work this summer, try one of our online partner classes for professional development.

The River City can be hot and humid, but you can keep your cool in the Great Summer Staycation at the University of Richmond.

Central Virginia Food and Spirits Tour

The Richmond area has become home to some of the finest producers of craft spirits and seasonal, regionally inspired cuisine around. Spend the day discovering and learning about some of them with us. We will begin at Blue Bee, Virginia's first and only urban cidery, where we will tour the facility, taste the cider, and have a question and answer session with the distiller. Then it is on to Center of the Universe in Ashland. COTU is one of our area's newest breweries, crafting an assortment of ales using only whole ingredients while sticking to the traditional, all-natural method of brewing. While there, we will again tour the facility, and then have an opportunity to sample some of their creations. Finally, it is over to the Fan for dinner at Heritage, one of the city's most popular eateries. Students will enjoy a three-course, prix fixe meal prepared with some local ingredients. Note: Transportation for this excursion will be on University passenger vans driven by approved drivers.

Turn Your Passion into a Profession with our Food Service Management Certificate

The Food Service Management (FSM) certificate is for everyone interested in honing their food service management skills—whether already in the business, looking to start a food service establishment, or simply interested in exploring the possibility. It is a 22-29 hour program that includes eight selected core courses and a Final Review. Program length varies slightly depending upon core courses selected.

As part of the program, students may opt to take the Servsafe® Certification course. Successful completion of this class will allow students to finish the program not only with the FSM certificate, but also with a 5-year certification from Servsafe—a most valuable tool in the foodservice industry.

This certificate program does not contain a pre-requisite course; instead, students are open to choose eight core courses that most interest them and to take them in any order.

The program culminates with Review: Food Service Management. This is the time for students to apply all of the skills and knowledge attained in the program. Students will work to complete a food service management-related project and receive feedback from the instructor.

Prior to completing Review: Food Service Management, students must complete the Graduation Application and pay the $75 fee. After successfully completing the review, students are eligible to graduate.

By adding our Food Service Management Certificate to our Culinary Arts Program Certificate and Bakery and Pastry Arts Certificate, and Nutrition and Food Science Certificate we offer a well-rounded culinary training opportunity at a phenomenal price to help you take that next career step.

Great Summer Experiences for Elementary School Kids

What will your elementary schooler do over the summer? At the University of Richmond, your child can enjoy educational enrichment programs all summer long.

Broaden your child's horizons with a multimedia adventure or a building block frenzy. Give your child the skills to become a parent's special helper for a younger sibling. Have them explore the Spanish language. Or give your child the tools to express the hidden artist within.

Most classes for elementary-age children are one week long and offered in the mornings or afternoons. This summer we're also offering a select number of "duo" courses, allowing parents to combine a morning class with an afternoon option and register for a full day. Students registered for duo courses should pack a lunch and a snack. Duo courses are offered in the same classroom each day, so drop off and pick up is easy.

Summer Fun for Middle Schoolers

As a transitional period between elementary and secondary school, middle school offers students an opportunity to combine the joy of both structured and unstructured play with the rigor of academic study.

Our summer classes for middle school students combine the fun of elementary programs with the structure and academic focus of our secondary programs. Offer your middle school student the opportunity to experience Shakespeare, learn babysitter basics or enroll in a golf camp.

Or explore a variety of topics all summer long with Reflections. This summer, Reflections is offering six different weekly learning adventures, starting June 23 and ending August 15.

Online Learning is a Great Option for Busy Professionals

If you ask most students why they choose to learn online, the most common response you'll get is, "It's just more convenient."

But the benefits of online learning go beyond mere convenience. In fact, you may find the online environment is more conducive to your individual learning style. If you are a motivated self-starter who enjoys using technology and online interaction tools, you may find that online learning is the right fit for you. Plus online learning, especially online professional development, offers numerous other benefits.

Expand vour skillset

Our variety of online learning partners make it easy for individuals to upgrade their knowledge of a particular topic or add a new skillset. E-learning, e-marketing, software applications, writing and communication, and customer service are a few examples.

Earn a credential

Many online providers also offer coursework that results in a certificate or professional credential. CFP, eMarketing Essentials Certificate and the Certificate in Online Teaching are a few examples.

Broaden your perspective and your professional network

You can learn from instructors across the country, and in some cases, around the world. Plus you'll be enrolled with classmates from a wide range of backgrounds and locations giving you the opportunity to get to know and network with them as well.

Proceed at your own pace with added flexibility

Because much online learning is done in an "asynchronous" manner, student proceed at a pace that best meets their personal needs and schedules. Plus you can access online learning opportunities anytime, any place you have access to the Internet, from the comfort of your own home or office.

Get excited about learning

spcs.richmond.edu/computer

The interactivity and multimedia delivery of online professional development can make learning more engaging and fun. Most online learning technologies integrate online quizzes and other tools to more rapidly evaluate the pace of learning. Instructors have the ability to share feedback quicker and more frequently.
